The starting point for the development of this project was the need to preserve the cultural, historical and architecturally valuable Janković Manor in Suhopolje of its further deterioration.

The Janković Manor has a rank of protected cultural heritage, while the historic park where the manor is located is protected as a natural landscape object and a monument of garden architecture. Unfortunately, the current state of the manor and gardens is extremely bad. In order to stop further deterioration of this valuable cultural property, it will be restored and renovated into a hotel. Restoration of the manor and its new functions will return the importance which was lost back to the manor and will affect the promotion of Suhopolje in which it is located, as well as the further development of the local community. The reconstruction will follow the restoration of historic gardens in which the manor is situated, as an indivisible landscape and architectural ensemble.
